

Early Retiree Reinsurance Program: Reimbursement Update

June 17, 2011

The Early Retiree Reinsurance Program (ERRP) was established by section 1102 of the Affordable Care Act enacted on March 23, 2010. Congress appropriated $5 billion for this temporary program and directed the Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS) to set up the program within 90 days of enactment. By law, the ERRP is scheduled to end no later than January 1, 2014. Due to the significant response among the employer community, the program ceased accepting applications on May 6, 2011.

People in the early retiree age group (i.e., ages 55 to 64) often face difficulties obtaining insurance in the individual market because of age or chronic conditions that make coverage unaffordable or inaccessible. The availability of group health insurance coverage for America's retirees age 55 to 64 has declined significantly over the past 20 years, as the percentage of large employers providing workers with retirement health coverage has dropped from 66 percent to 28 percent.* The ERRP was designed to stabilize this market by providing financial assistance to health plan sponsors that make coverage available to millions of early retirees and their families – including for-profit companies, schools and educational institutions, unions, State and local governments, religious organizations and other nonprofit plan sponsors.

ERRP payments cannot be used as general revenue by the group health plan that provides early retiree benefits, or the employer or union that sponsors it. ERRP payments must be used to reduce plan participants' costs, to reduce plan sponsors' costs of providing coverage, or both. Program payments are thus targeted to encourage plans to continue providing coverage to early retirees and their families.

The information below includes all payments made to approved plan sponsors through May 27, 2011. These data include reimbursement requests received through March 31, 2011, prior to the implementation of the new claims list submission requirement in April.
